Hi, Dr. Jaime Hope, M.D. here. As a dual-board certified physician and ER doctor, I know many people are dealing with chronic joint pain.

In fact, roughly 91 million American adults out there are struggling with painfully worn-out, stiff, achy joints.

Research shows that 43% of all adults over the age of 45 struggle with significant joint discomfort. Frequent problem areas are the knees, hips, hands, wrists, elbows, shoulders, neck, or in the upper and lower back.

So, what is causing so many people to suffer with stiff, achy joints?

For many people, the unavoidable wear and tear over time is to blame.

Think of your joints as being like car tires: Over time, the tread on the tires get worn down gradually from usage.

Let's start with a common area of joint soreness thanks to today's smart phones: hands.

Have you ever felt such searing pain in your hands that you could barely use your smart phone? Many people now complain about discomfort in their hands, and in today's electronic age, millions are dealing with stiff, achy wrists, fingers, and hands.

The neck, shoulders, hands, and spine used to be problem areas that only my older patients were primarily complaining about. But now, many adolescents are experiencing trouble in those same places—and they do not even play sports!

But the aches and pains of life go beyond our electronic age.

Do your knees “bark” at you when you walk up a flight of stairs? Achy knees are a serious pain point for many people...a high percentage of long-distance runners who have been running for years will eventually suffer the consequences from the wear and tear of running long distances consistently over time.

Living with stiff and inflexible joints is a real drag on the fun life you deserve. You may have grandchildren to play with, hikes to take, or art museums to explore...the last thing you want to do is let nagging joint and muscle aches cause you to miss the things you love to do, right?

If your discomfort and lack of flexibility keeps increasing and you have already missed too many activities, now is the time to find something that can help you enjoy life again.

What About Those Pain-Relief Creams at Your Local Store?

Down at the local drug store, you can find many different brands of “pain relief creams”, or as they’re sometimes called, “sports creams.”

Although the common sports creams at your local store are convenient and relatively affordable, they typically end up making you smell like a medicine cabinet while failing to get to the source of the problem.

The last thing you want to do is smell like a senior citizen. Most sports creams have an “icy hot” aroma that will make people around you think you are injured (or old.)

But that is not the only reason why you should think twice before using the common sports creams out there...many people do not realize how surprisingly toxic to the body some of the ingredients in those formulas can be.

There have been cases of users becoming ill—even quite seriously—because so little is known about what is in these topical creams.

Because these sports creams are applied to the skin instead of ingested, consumers have been known to mistakenly think they can apply as much of the cream as they want to their skin without any consequences.

Most consumers have no idea what is in the ingredients of these sports creams. These ingredients typically found in sports creams that have shown to be toxic at high levels:

So Where Can You Find Natural Relief?

The good news is that there IS something available that delivers results at the source without using questionable chemicals – TrustBo CBD Cream™ is what we call it– and it’s a different type of sports cream that includes ultra-premium, hemp-derived CBD.

Believe it or not, the reason why so many people are now using CBD creams and testifying to its positive results has to do with the fact that you have receptors for CBD in your skin. (In case you are wondering, these are endocannabinoid receptors and TRPV1 receptors.) This means CBD in the CBD Cream can target specific areas and provide you with the results you are looking for.

When you apply TrustBo CBD Cream, the ingredients quickly go to the source—2 minutes is all it takes with those CBD receptors in your skin. With our CBD cream, you get rapid, targeted results that are LONGER lasting.

Another benefit to using TrustBo CBD cream has to do with your nose—and everyone else's nose around you! Users have no embarrassing odor after applying the cream to their body, so they don't end up smelling like a guy's locker room (like most sports creams.)

Also, this cream is specially formulated to prevent that lingering “greasy” feeling you often experience with other creams.

TrustBo CBD Cream also does not stain your clothes—apply the cream after a workout and feel confident—even in a suit and tie!

Just apply the cream, feel the cooling sensation and in two minutes you will begin to experience for yourself the support and results that this product provides!

To make sure you experience these results, the CBD cream should be from TrustBo—because not all CBD creams are the same. You need to know about the scammers out there who are offering shady products that leave you feeling ripped off.

Warning: CBD Scams

Since 2018, when CBD was legalized as a supplement, it's become the wild, wild west for CBD-based products, which are popping up everywhere around the U.S. And despite FDA oversight, regulators cannot keep up with the explosive growth.

Get this, according to Hemp Business Journal, The Brightfield Group forecasts the US market for CBD will go from almost non-existent to reaching a whopping $22 billion by 2022.

Yet when you think about it, that math doesn't add up. When CBD was legalized in 2018, the majority of farmers in the U.S. weren't even legally able to start growing hemp and extract CBD from it until early 2019—and it takes considerable time and a massive investment to grow hemp and get the proper processing equipment in place for a harvest.

Meanwhile, hundreds of millions of dollars of CBD-based products have been sold online and across retail stores around the country. This created surging prices and a world-wide shortage of quality CBD.

Sure, some of it was imported from questionable overseas suppliers like China, but it begs the question... where is all of the CBD coming from?

Turns out, it wasn't coming from anywhere. Lab tests show that many companies simply lied about the amount of CBD in their products... or left it out completely.

Label Full of Lies

Case in point, in a study published in the prestigious Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. Marcel Bonn-Miller and colleagues tested 84 CBD products to see if the products actually contained the amount of CBD claimed on the label.

The startling results:

- 69% did not meet label claims
- nearly one-half contained less CBD than labeled
- some products contained only mere traces of CBD

Alarmingly, THC—the psychoactive compound in marijuana that gets you high—was detected at higher than legal limits in 21% of the samples tested as well.

Fraud Exposed

What's more, an investigation by NBC 4 in New York found less than half of the samples they had tested contained the stated amount of CBD inside the product. Some samples contained NONE at all, and some samples contained dangerous amounts of lead at 4 times more than the legal limit.

Investigators from NBC 6 in Miami also tested 35 CBD products and their testing revealed that 57% had less than half of the amount of CBD advertised on the label and some had no CBD at all.

This means that many hard-working Americans, who are suffering from anxiety, excess hunger, sleeplessness and various forms of physical pain, are spending millions of dollars on CBD-based products that don't contain much, if any, CBD.

What an all-out scam! No wonder they aren't getting results.

When it comes to buying a quality CBD product, I always say, buyer beware!

TrustBo: CBD Products You Can Trust

After learning about all the pitfalls and downfalls of traditional CBD products, many of my family, friends and patients will email or call me asking for a reliable source of high-quality CBD that they can trust.

With no one out there helping people find quality CBD products, I, along with our advisory board consisting of medical doctors, hemp farmers, nutritionists, botanists and research scientists with a combined 50 years in the nutritional supplement space, decided to start our own company: Trust Botanicals--or TrustBo™ for short--that sells only high-quality CBD you can rely on.

Based on all these factors I'm sharing with you here, we developed TrustBo CBD Cream, which has become one of our most popular products.

Your Life Could Change Dramatically

Just imagine no more sitting on the sidelines WATCHING your grandchildren play. A little CBD Cream can enable you to JOIN IN THE FUN and play like a kid again. Picture their smiles and squeals of delight when they see you rising from your chair to join in the fun.

Perhaps you have a sore shoulder adding strokes to your golf game...or a nagging elbow making a game of tennis more like a chore instead of the enjoyable pastime you loved for years...what if you could improve your range of motion along with your competitive edge and find pleasure once again in a sport you still enjoy simply by applying some TrustBo CBD Cream to your sore joints and muscles?

CBD extract is an ancient botanical that not only supports healthy, comfortable joints, many claim to feel younger and more vibrant again after regular use. Even the New York Times touted CBD as a "magical elixir."

That may sound like hyperbole—however a recent Gallup poll reported that 64 million U.S. adults now use CBD routinely.

So many people are using CBD for its ability to help ease joint, back and body pain. That's why TrustBo CBD Cream was developed—to deliver a high quality CBD in a rub-on cream formula to help people feel younger and more energetic as the CBD in the cream provides spot-on support for sore, achy joints, helping people find more happiness by enabling them to return to their favorite pastimes like gardening and golf.
